Celebrating family business excellence

amily businesses are the lifeblood of the world economy. Take them away and not only do you remove the very essence of economic dynamism, but also undermine society.

CampdenFB has been chronicling and celebrating family businesses, especially those with multi-generational pedigrees, for more than 15 years. From the much-loved magazine to the digital offering, CampdenFB has given its readers interviews and profiles with such family business luminaries as the Murdochs, the Mittals and the Fords, and has delved into the areas that matter for family businesses – like succession, governance, wealth preservation and stewardship.

Continuing the legacy of the print edition, CampdenFB.com offers readers in-depth profiles, insightful articles and strategic features on the most exciting family businesses in the world.

With its unique readership of the vast majority of the wealthiest business leaders around the globe, together with their investment offices, CampdenFB present a unique and versatile vehicle for advertising and promotion. Business has never been more of a family affair.

CampdenFB Readership

CampdenFB readers are among the most important business people globally. Typically, they run, or have partial ownership, of a business with annual revenues of more than $150 million a year. They are second, third, fourth-generation - and beyond - business owners.

GEOGRAPHICAL

CampdenFB readers want to know about what other family businesses are up to; they want intelligence on the leading ideas and thinking on family businesses.

CampdenFB readers have expensive tastes. They will seek out quality and be prepared to pay for it, but will exercise discretion in making purchases.

CampdenFB's readership is enhanced through the Campden Club, Campden Family Connect and with Campden Wealth's ownership of the Institute of Private Investors (IPI). This global community of more than 1,400 family members from 26 countries receive the publication.

With the Campden Club and IPI's membership constantly rising, CampdenFB's readership continues to grow.
